John Gates of Ripley was ordered to pay 5, he having married the widow of Thomas Parker, grocer, in Derby, and carried on the business. The sequel to this little history may be gathered from the following entry: -- We, the Mercers Company, do hereby certify that the said John Gates, and Elizabeth, his wife, having purchased their emancipation, shall carry on the trade of a grocer in Derby during the term of their natural lives. The last record of prosecution in Derby is on October 30th, 1732, when power was given to any member against hawkers and pedlars, or those who exposed goods for sale to the prejudice of the freemen of Derby. A resolution...
